COMPILER'S PREFACE.

It is with the hope that the Braley Genealogy may prove to be as free from errors as the many similar books. It would be beyond my fondest dream to expect it to be entirely free from errors. Every care possible, however, has been used not only to try to collect every family record, but also to verify those collected. But often town vital records, tombstones and family Bibles disagree. And I have received data from several in same family which did not agree in every particular. So there are many ways for errors to creep in.

It is with much disappointment on my part that I am forced to announce that many of the family records are not as complete as I could wish. Such, however, in most cases are the results of not replying to repeated requests for such data. There are, however, a few such incomplete records that I have been unable to locate the parties in order to ask for fuller data.

No expense or care has been withheld in the compilation of the book, and I hope it will prove reasonably satisfactory to its subscribers.

GEORGE L. RANDALL.

INTRODUCTION

By Abner L. Braley.

In common with some other American families, the Braleys are forced to rely on tradition to account for the presence of their progenitors in this country.

The familiar tradition is that three Welshmen, who were brothers, were "pressed" on a British vessel. Being of the Quaker faith, their tenets forbade participation in war, and, accordingly, they availed themselves of the first opportunity to escape.

The legend runs that because of destitution they ate the soles of their shoes for food, and to conceal their identity, changed their name to Braley.

Of the three brothers, two disappear from view, the hazy tradition alone remaining that one of them returned to Wales.

One of the brothers married a widow Russell, and at least the name "Russell" has persisted in the family even to the present day. All branches of the family accept the tradition related above.

One branch alone, claims that the Braleys are of French Huguenot extraction, that the name was originally "Brales," and was pronounced in French as if "es" were "ez."

A very full and careful investigation of all available sources of information has failed to disclose anything more complete or authentic than the fragmentary results which follow.

In 1643, a list of men capable of bearing arms at Marshfield gives the name of Robert Brelles, allowing a slight supposition to arise that Robert might be the ancestor of the family.

The records further state that on August 24, 1676, James Brayley served in Major Savage's Company; that on February 29th, 1675, James Brierly is in Colonel Joseph Gardner's Company; that on December 10th, 1675, Corporal James Braley is in Major Appleton's Company—both of these latter commanders being then engaged in the Narragansett war.

Of the different spelling of these names we can only note the usual tendency of the 17th century to guess at a man's name when writing it. The use of sealings and marks had not, as yet, wholly vanished.

On the Portsmouth, R. I., records, Roger Braley, whom tradition calls the progenitor of the American family has his name spelled "Brailey."

On the records of Rochester, Massachusetts, the later Roger is called "Bralee," and he certainly signed deeds as "Brailey," as well as "Braley."

This second Roger formerly lived in Middleboro, and, while removing from that place to Rochester, it is said that he picked up a white stone which caught his fancy, and brought it with him. The story goes on to say that this stone is at his grave in the family cemetery in North Rochester. In that cemetery there is such a stone at his grave.

The tendency of the Braleys to embrace the beliefs of the Society of Friends, did not prevent many of them from serving in the Revolutionary War.

Gideon Braley enlisted at Adams, Mass., and served 96 days. He was at the taking of Ticonderoga.

John Braley of Freetown is reported as dead August 1, 1778. In Captain Rounceville's march from Freetown, April 19th, 1775.

Nathaniel Braley was First Lieutenant of the Brigantine "Reprisal."

This Nathaniel was born at Rehoboth, Mass., May 5, 1775. At the age of eleven he went as cabin boy and followed the sea until he was 33 years of age. For many years he commanded a vessel, running to the East Indies and China. In the Revolutionary War, he was captured and kept on one of the terrible hulks in the harbor of New York, where he suffered the usual hardships of those places. Escaping, he was sent to England, perhaps to Dartmoor, whence he escaped, and by the aid of friends reached France. Returning to Rehoboth, he removed to Savoy, Mass., with his wife, the daughter of Elisha Carpenter, who owned land in Savoy on which the couple settled.

In 1801, they removed to Palmyra, New York.

On June 25th, 1802, Nathaniel died. His widow Cynthia made her home with her daughters till 1813. In 1819 they moved to Gaines, Orleans Co., where the widow lived till her death on March 18th, 1841.

Nathaniel's wallet which he carried with him through the war is now in the possession of his descendants at Albion, N. Y.

William Braley, age 18, enlisted in Bristol County (from Rehoboth) in 1779.

Wingate Braley of Haverhill also served.

The race, although hardy and prolific in the early days, consisted principally of yeomen and sailors. If none of them have achieved great distinction in military or civil life, yet they have always been a law-abiding, God-fearing people, active and efficient members of the community in which their lives have been spent. History does not record their services because the very foundation of the political and social order rests upon those who are the backbone of the community. The work of the world is done by the average man, and of such as they, America was made, and by such as they her future is secured.

Judge Arthur B. Braley began studying law in 1844, teaching school during the winter months in Wyoming Valley, Pa., in 1846 moved to Wisconsin, and in 1848 was admitted to the bar. In the organization of the city of Madison in 1852, he was elected Police Justice and in 1868 was elected City Attorney. During the presidential campaigns of 1864 and 1868 he edited the democratic paper of the city. In 1874 he became Municipal Judge, which office he held at decease. Judge Braley was a prolific writer both politically and literary, and his Shakespearian reviews won him the distinction of being considered the finest Shakespearian scholar in the northwest.

Gazette, when in 1909 he came to New York, working on the Evening Mail, and Puck. Is a contributor to nearly all the magazines, and writes a daily poem for a syndicate of some forty or fifty papers. His first story, a fairy tale, was published in "The American Boy," when eleven years of age. He kindly contributes the following poem:

THE REFORMERS—By Berton Braley.

Does it make you mad when you read about
Some poor, starved devil who flickered out
Because he had never a decent chance
In the tangled meshes of circumstance?
Does it make you burn like the fires of sin?
Brother, you battle with us, fall in!

Does it make you rage when you come to learn
Of a clean souled woman who could not earn
Enough to live and who fought—but fell
In the bitter struggle and went to hell?
Does it make you seethe with an anger hot?
Brother, we welcome you, share our lot!

Whoever has blood that will flood his face
At the sight of the Beast in the Holy Place,
Whoever has rage for the tyrants' might
For the Powers that Prey in the day and night,
Whoever has hate for the ravening brute
That strips the tree of its goodly fruit,
Whoever knows wrath at the sight of pain
Of needless sorrow and heedless gain,
Whoever knows bitterness, shame and gall
At the thought of the trampled ones doomed to fall,
He is a brother-in-blood, we know.
With brain afire and with heart aglow,
By the light in his eyes we sense our kin—
Brother, you battle with us,—fall in!
